The Art of Facilitation – Systemic Work in the Field of Illness and Health

Systemic Constellation Work in the field of Illness and Health shows that illness can not be reduced to an individual phenomena of the sick person. Solutions for illness or symptoms often only rise, when symptomatology is acknowledged as embedded in a larger, often transgenerational context.

Often the symptoms are connected to traumatic events, that happened in the history of the family, or to excluded family members who are connected to these events.

The ambition of this workshop is to create a space to experience how in opposite to judgement, interpretation and exclusion, an attitude of acknowledgement, agreement and being in tune with what happened may unfold healing by being healthy reconnected with the resources within the family.

Stephan is a Member of the CI Advisory Board. His lifelong interest is sustainable life in alignment with the principles of nature.

He is driven by contributing to the required global change in consciousness and culture to provide sustainable health and well-being for all living beings and by this an improvement in the quality of life for all people and our planet.
